Company Overview

Digital Safety Technologies develops ruggedized in-car video systems for law enforcement. The DigitalPatroller DP-2 in-car video recording system combined with our robust back-office solution gives you total command of your video evidence, from first contact in the field all the way to presentation of the evidence in court.

Our technology is installed in thousands of police vehicles across the nation. We are aware of the issues our customers face every day, and have structured our business around providing the kind of support and back-up you can depend on. Behind each deployment there is an assigned project team to guide you in implementing this mission-critical solution. Development, engineering, service and support are all housed at our corporate headquarters so immediate results are always just a phone call away.
